Some Plain Talk on Growing Up!

It's about time we grew up!

Before, we have given subtle reminders and soft nudges. Now we're done with such padded remarks. Necessity requires that we talk "plain talk."

So let's get a few things straight. First, we can keep quiet. Our mouths don't run on a perpetual principle. There is no commandment that says, "Thou shalt not keep still." Second. let's not slam people who remind us of our duties; quiet hours, hose, neatness, campuses and the like. After all, we shouldn't have to be told.

Third, let's stop pampering our egotistic selves. Just because we're in high spirits doesn't mean the whole dorm or the whole city student lounge is. In other words, be considerate. Fourth, concerning dates: remember the old adage, "Love may be blind but the neighbors ain't." Corollary: Discretion isn't yet 'out of date.'

Finally, we shouldn't act like adults — we should be adults. Imitation is no field for us. Let's be the real thing.

When we were little, we often said. "When I grow up. . . " Well, aren't we grown-up now? Certainly we've come a long way since we wistfully uttered that dream. But have we stopped doing the things we did then — such as talking and laughing at an operatic crescendo, pouting when we're corrected, refusing to "play"

How about it? If we are grown up, we can expect to be treated as adults. We can expect it not only from our equals but also from our superiors. This is only fair.

As we said previously, we didn't intend to pad this . . . and

It all boils down to this: we can grow up any time now.

Art Students Go Parisian In May Show

A Parisian carnival spirit will pervade the Clarke campus Friday. May 3, for the third annual outdoor art show. Balloons, pendants and the casual hanging of art work from clothes lines, will enhance this atmosphere.

The one-day show will be from 10 until 5. Refreshments will be sold.

Show Is Unique

Strollers near the Seine in Paris would expect to see outdoor art shows displayed along the streets in spring. Here in the midwest these shows are relatively rare and that is what makes Clarke's annual clothesline show so

Interest in this show has mounted Students are realizing the value of purchasing original art work for their future homes. Some even buy watercolors to lay away for next year's Christmas gifts.

Artists Sell Work

Watercolors, oils, wood and linleum cuts, ceramics and jewelry will be for sale. There will also be an opportunity to have individual portraits made in pencil or pastel on appointment. The artists will take special orders for mobiles, particular pieces of jewelry and ceramics,
